

Puppy bill of sale

A record of the sale of one dog. Complete every field; a blank is a question later.

Seller

Business or breeder name: Address:
Phone: Email:
License or registration number, if any:

Buyer

Full legal name: Address:
Phone: Email:

The puppy

Name: Breed:
Sex: Date of birth:
Colour and markings: Microchip number:
Microchip registry: Registration or litter number, if any:
Sire (father): Dam (mother):

Price and payment

Purchase price: Deposit previously paid:
Balance paid today: Payment method:
Date of sale:

Statements

1. The buyer has seen the puppy described above and has had the chance to ask about its health and history.
2. The seller has given the buyer a written record of the vaccinations, deworming and any treatments the puppy has received, with dates and products.
3. The seller has given the buyer a written health guarantee, and the buyer has read it.
4. Any disclosures required by state law have been given to the buyer in writing.
5. The buyer agrees to have the puppy examined by a licensed veterinarian within _____ days of this sale.
6. The buyer accepts delivery of the puppy on the date of sale, in the condition seen.

Signatures

Buyer

Printed name and date

Seller or representative

Printed name and date

Many states require pet dealers to give buyers specific written disclosures and set minimum buyer protections. Check your state's current rules and add any required wording before you use this.
Keep a copy with the animal's record for as long as the health guarantee runs.
Free template from Petlovin' · petlovin.co/templates · Not legal advice.